Flowering plants, both native and exotic, offer the beneficial insects and birds, a source of food, nectar, pollen, and shelter. By planting various flowering species that bloom at different times throughout the year, we maintain a constant source of food, especially during the growing season. By encouraging and supporting beneficials to target pest species in the vineyard we benefit environmentally and enjoy the beauty of flowers, birds and insects in the vineyard.

3 By Chance Wines

For the very first time, By Chance Wines will open its cellar door to the public. Guests will have the opportunity to tour the micro winery, hear more about the vineyard we farm, and of course, taste our new releases. To celebrate Spring in the Vines, we will also be hand disgorging some of our very first vintage of Blancs de Noir sparkling!
